MAY 21-22-23, 1970
WARWICK HOTEL
17th & LOCUST STREETS
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

Sitka is situated on the western side of Baranoff I. an island about 150 miles long by 50 in width.
The Bay of Sitka is about 20 miles long, extending in an easterly direction com-directly from the ocean;
it is from 10 to 15 miles wide, but has many arms, or small bays
extending from 5 to 7 miles further inwards which just cut around the bay and enclose it on nearly side except that towards the ocean.
On the northern side, near the entrance of the bay rises Mount Edgcumbe, an extinct volcano of most regular and perfect proportions, being a truncated cone

CIVIL WAR GENERALS

Coins & Currency, Inc. is proud to present the private archives of three Civil War generals, which have for over a hundred years been in the possession of the families and are virtually unpublished. JAMES S. BRISBIN was selected by Lincoln to organize Negro units in the Union Army from newly freed slaves. He was later a noted Indian fighter who participated in Custer's last campaign. JOHN C. TIDBALL fought in many important battles of the Civil War, was Commandant at West Point and an early military commander of Alaska. N.J.T. DANA was famed for his campaigns in Texas.

1201. (ACTS OF CONGRESS) Printed copy (130 pages) entitled "Acts Passed at the First Session of the Eighteenth Congress." Includes various Indian treaties. Binding Firm. . . . . (15.00)

1202. AGNON, S.Y. Israeli author, Nobel laureate. D.S. Signed souvenir copy of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights. Signed by the late author in Hebrew. Attractive! . . . . . (20.00)

1203. AGNEW, Dr. DAVID HAYES. Subject of the famous painting by Thomas Eakins. A.N.S. and photograph with small copy of Eakins painting. Fine! . . . . . (10.00)

1204. (ALASKA). 1868 diary written by General JOHN TIDBALL relating to his journey to Alaska and his assuming command of various posts shortly after the purchase of Alaska by the United States.

72 pages written in pencil, with vivid description of Alaska and sketches. Beginning when he left San Francisco (August 8, 1868), his duties took him to Sitka, Kodiak, Kenay, Wrangel, Tongass and other points of the frontier region.

TIDBALL was a Civil War general, Commandant of Cadets at West Point, aide to General Sherman in the West, commander of numerous garrisons in Alaska, and author of a number of military manuals. His writing is interesting and exciting with remarkable candor.

His Alaska diary gives a vivid insight into everyday life in early Alaska as well as a log of miles traveled between various points and a chart of fur prices.

"The post of Wrangel is on Wrangel Island near the mouth of the Stachine River and due east of Sitka almost 150 miles. The Indians of the vicinity are the Stachines, a fierce and war like tribe. Near the post is a large village of them. . . . The canoe is the institution of these people as the horse is of the Arab and it is astonishing with what skill they manage these cranking affairs. Men, women and children with all their goods, arms and dogs pile into them. . . . The Hudson Bay Company have a trading post a few miles up the Stachine. It is at present within our territory, but they are building a new one higher up within British limits. This company is doing everything possible to retain trade with the Indians. They furnish them with arms and ammunition in abundance, a species of traffic which is not permitted to our traders. A revenue officer is retained at this post to prevent smuggling. The Indians are beginning to learn this business and object to having their canoes searched. They threaten to come down the Stachine with a fleet of war canoes and test with the U.S. authorities the question of ownership of the country."

Of Sitka, Tidball writes: "Besides the garrison of U.S. troops there is a white population of about 300 people composed of a mixture of Russians, Americans and Jew Traders. Previous to the cession of the territory to the U.S., Sitka was the headquarters of the Russian-American Fur Company and was essentially a company town. Everything, even the furniture in the houses belonged to the company and nothing could be done outside the service for the company — not even the washing of soiled linen — without the special permission of the governor." Tidball also describes the Russians in great detail as to their behavior and customs.

Also printed orders related to Tidball's service in Alaska signed by various aides to Generals Canby, Schofield, Halleck, Whipple and Thomas.

An extremely interesting group concerning the early history of Alaska.

A choice archive!

Scarce! . . . . . (25.00

1225. BRISBIN, JAMES S. Civil War general. A.L.S. 3 pages, to his wife. Dated Lexington Ky., October 15, 1864. On the printed stationary of the "Head-Quarters United States Colored Troops." A fascinating letter dealing with the military situation in Kentucky, his attitude towards the colored troops he commanded and advise to his wife.

"Senator Wade and his wife will be here on Wednesday and will stay a day or two. . . . Poor Genl. Harrison died yeaterday in great pain – He was shot at the battle of Saltville on the raid – the ball going through him just over the hips. You have often heard me curse him — I did not like him as a man but he was a brave and efficient officer ... We all came near being captured the other day. The Genl. and his staff were to go up to Oscar Burbridges side ... and the gurrillas heard of it. They attacked the train and captured it ... Fortunately we were detained by business and did not get off — they burned the train, shot a nigger or two, robbed the passengers and then cleared out -- The guerillas are getting hot again and we have commenced shooting them. Two were shot yesterday and we have one hundred and fifty in jail yet to shoot."

BRISBIN chastizes his wife for her behavior in rather firm language. He was chosen by President Lincoln, a personal acquaintance, to organize Negro troops during the war. BRISBIN was a pioneer in this field.
A candid expression of his views! ..... (65.00)

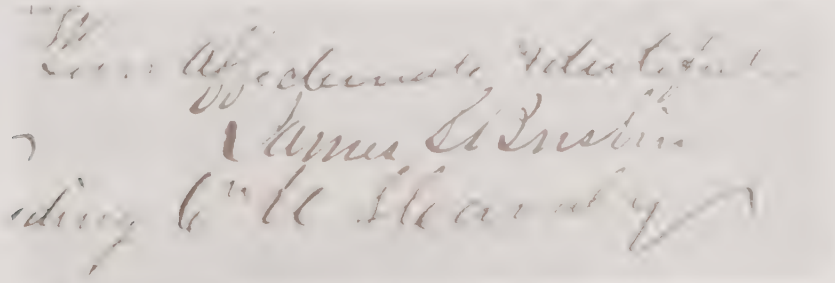
1226. BRISBIN. A.L.S. 2 pp. Dated Helena, Arkansas, December 9, 1865. To his wife. "The sickness continues to increase in my troops. We are having a good many cases of small pox in the artillery, I got vaccinated today ... Genl. Sherman passed here yesterday going to Little Rock." He encourages his wife to write more frequently.
Interesting! ..... (20.00)

1227. BRISBIN. A.L.S. 4 pp. Dated Helena, Arkansas, December 17, 1865. "I expect to stay here most of the winter and in the spring will in all probability go to the plains against the Indians ... I am now writing a sketch of my life for a book firm in New York that is about publishing the lives of all our generals with their pictures. My life may do well enough but I don't think my picture will be any addition to the man's book." General BRISBIN did go to the plains and established an outstanding reputation for himself as an Indian fighter.
Very fine! ..... (25.00)

1228. BRISBIN, JAMES S. Civil War general and Indian fighter. 4 pp. A.L.S. to his mother. Dated "Camp 6th U.S. Cavalry/Near Waterloo, Va., November 13, 1862." Important early letter of BRISBIN's relating to the top command of the army and the dismissal of McClellan.

"We now have over twelve hundred men in the 6th cavalry ... What a fool I would have been to have taken a Colonelcy of Volunteers ... I am anxious and fearful of the result of the next fight but hope we will gain the victory. If McClellan had only been let alone the victory was certain but now we are in the hands of a man who is far inferior in ability to "Little Mack". The rebles are no doubt rejoiced over the removal of McClellan and already they have become bolder. Yesterday they captured 30 of our wagons that were coming from Harpers Ferry. It was a hard blow on the army when they took little Mack from us. As he rode along the lines and regiment after regiment unfurled their tattered and torn flags men cried like children and the big tears ran down the General's cheeks ..."

BRISBIN describes his 6th Calvary as the finest in the Army and notes the Confederate's great fear of his outfit. He signs this letter to his mother with his full name and rank "JAMES S. BRISBIN / Commanding 6th U.S. Calvary."
Very significant! ..... (65.00)



1229. BRISBIN, JAMES. 4 pp A.L.S. dated Union, Va., July 21, 1863. Writes that his troops have lost contact with the Confederates and feels that they have gone north into Maryland. Gives a detailed account of a small encounter. . . . . (25.00)

1230. BROZ, JOSIP (TITO) Yugoslav premier. D.S. Souvenir copy of the Nuclear Test Ban Treaty embossed with postage stamps, including one picturing TITO. Scarce! . . . . . (25.00)

1231. BUCHANAN, JAMES. President. Important A.L.S. dated December 5, 1851, "Wheatland, near Lancaster." Written to John M. Jones. A truly historic letter outlining BUCHANAN's political ambitions.

BUCHANAN explains why he's unable to secure a political appointment that is requested of him. "It may be I shall yet be able to serve him without violating my promise, – the only promise I have made in regard to any of the Philadelphia appointments & should this prove to be the case, I shall recommend him with all my heart. I really believe that were I to select a candidate for each of the Philadelphia offices & urge his claim, I should thereby commit political suicide, considering the peculiar position in which I am placed. Colonel Bigler himself warned me against it in the most emphatic manner. The number of applicants for these appointments is very great, & many of them have been devoted personal & political friends. To decide in favor of one necessarily would offend the others & these friends; & this in my present peculiar & critical position might be the means of depriving me of the power to reward my friends hereafter. I am now convinced from all the information I recieve both from Washington and else where that my political fate depends upon Pennsylvania."

One full page. A rare insight into a future President's philosophy. Choice and historic! . . . . . (100.00)

1232. BUCHANAN, JAMES. Franked cover addressed to General John Davis all in BUCHANAN's handwriting. His signature appears in the upper right hand corner and he has written the word "free" above his name. Mounted and framed with a picture of BUCHANAN. With Washington postmark. Scarce! . . . . . (50.00)

1233. BUTLER, BENJAMIN F. Civil War general and politician. Large signature mounted and framed with a contemporary engraving of BUTLER in uniform. Fine! . . . . . (30.00)

1234. [CALIFORNIA GOLD RUSH]. Letter written from the gold fields of California dated 1851. In German. Some stains. 2 pages. . . . . (10.00)

1235. CASS, LEWIS. American diplomat and Presidential candidate. A.L.S. as Secretary of State written to a member of congress. Dated January 26, 1859. Discusses the policy of sending bearers of dispatches to Europe. Mounted, but in otherwise fine condition. Interesting! . . . . . (15.00)

1236. CHAPLIN, CHARLES and OONA. American humorist and his wife. T.M.S. by both. 1 page. Moving excerpt from CHAPLIN's autobiography. . . . . (10.00)

1237. [CHARGE OF THE LIGHT BRIGADE] A.L.S. of JAMES THOMAS BRUDENELL (Lord Cardigan). Dated 1826. BRUDENELL was responsible for ordering the light brigade to their death in the Crimea. Fine! . . . . . (15.00)

1238. [CIVIL WAR: COLORED TROOPS] 4 pp A.L.S. by Civil War general JAMES S. BRISBIN, who was personally charged by Lincoln to organize Negro troops to fight

Highlands, near Lancaster 5 December 1851

My dear Sir /

I have received your favor of the 29th ultimo & would, simply assent, that at the present moment, I can do nothing for Mr. Mackey. I know his merits, personal & professional, & there is no gentleman in this State whom I would rather serve than himself. At the same time I think you be able to serve him without involving our friends, — the only promise I have made in regard to any of the Philadelphia appointments is & should this prove to be the case, I shall accompany him in person & make to all concerned on this subject.

I really believe that were I to divide a candidate for each of the Philadelphia offices I could please them, some personal friends, considering the personal hostility in which I am placed. Colonel Wright himself would be acceptable to the most sensitive Democrat. [illegible] is unexceptionable for their appointments is very great. I mean of them have been my devoted personal & political friends. In regard to places of one description would offend the others & these friends I have on my personal, political & official position, which is the reason of deference one of the power to reward our friends in office.
I am now convinced, from all the information I receive here from Washington & elsewhere that our political friends [illegible]

LOT No. 1231

for the Union. Written to his wife and dated, New Orleans, May 7, 1864.

"Gen. Banks was a little sick, he was slightly wounded by a shell the other day ... I suppose you have seen in the papers that the Rebles are killing all the Negroes and their officers as fast as they can catch them. It is serious business now to be a Nigger or to have command of them. Genl. McNeil and myself are trying to get hold of all the Nigger troops here and get them organized into a Corps. We will go up on the first boat to see Banks about it. I intend to tell what Nigger troops I command to give no quarter. I am ready to hoist the black flag – if the rebles can stand we can -- The war is getting desperate. I feel some times like a beast ..."

As was usual, BRISBIN signed this letter to his wife "Jim."

A fine letter! . . . . . (50.00)

1239. (CIVIL WAR) LEE & MEADE. 4pp A.L.S. by Civil War general JAMES S. BRISBIN. Dated "In field near Brandy Station/Dec. 3rd, 1863." Interesting letter regarding the generalship of Robert E. Lee and George Meade. BRISBIN was a top cavalry commander in Meade's army (he spells the general's name "Mead").

"Well here we are back on this side of the river and just where we started from. We had no great battle – when all was ready and everyone expected having a great fight, Mead suddenly fell back – why no one can tell. I have no idea why we did not fight – perhaps there are reasons unknown to us which will explain our retreat but at present I have not the most remote idea of what brought us back in such a hurry. Mead from the first acted as if he was afraid of Lee -- Mead is no match for Lee in generalship -- still I think he could have whipped the Rebles as we had far more men than they had. It will be a long time before we have another such a chance to thrash the rebles. What we are going to do no one can tell – but I know what I am going to do. I am going to build winter quarters."

Good insight into the leadership of the Union Army. . . . . (30.00)

1240. (CIVIL WAR) FORT STEDMAN. A.M. of Civil War general JOHN C. TIDBALL concerning the capture of Fort Stedman, Virginia, one of the last actions of the war. This copy, completely in TIDBALL's handwriting is unsigned and was kept in his records. It is addressed to Col. John Hay and is dated 1889. Mentioned is Lincoln's visit to the battlefield and a detailed description of the battle. 4 pp.

Interesting and exciting! . . . . . (25.00)

1241. (CIVIL WAR) TEXAS! Important A.L.S. by Civil War general JAMES BRISBIN. On the stationary of "Headquarters, Cavalry Division/Department of the Gulf". Dated Alexandria, La., March 21, 1864, written to his wife and signed "Jim." 4 pp.

"After six days hard marching we have arrived here safe yesterday – We had no fighting in cavalry. The enemy fell back before us as we advanced but did not give us battle – The gunboats had a little fight – our infantry landed from the boats and had a little battle, they captured Fort DeRussy a strong fort of the Rebels on Red River near here. We captured eight canons and three hundred prisoners. The enemy have gone up Red River to Shrieveport ... What we will do I cannot tell -- Genl. Banks is not here – he will be up today – It is more than likely we will go on up Red River to Shrieveport and try to get a fight out of the Rebles – I do not think they will fight -- we will have to follow them into Texas before they will risk a battle & if Banks follows them into the deserts of Texas he will get defeated. I fear we are to have a repetition of the Sabine Pass disaster... The Rebles are burning the cotton in all directions -- over a million of dollars worth has been burned up since yesterday. It is awful, fires are seen day and night in all directions. This is the finest Country God ever made -- I cannot describe it -- you would have to see it to appreciate it. The people are all rich. A man here does not consider himself a wealthy man unless he is worth four or five hundred thousand dollars – ten or twelve thousand dollars is no money at all ... My God will this never end — will this horrible war not soon come to a close and let us be happy."

BRISBIN speaks of the death General Beauregard's wife and what fools he thought the Confederates were to give up everything for a rebellion.
A truly fine archive of the war! . . . . . (70.00)

1242. (CIVIL WAR: MEADE) Three page A.L.S. by Civil War general JAMES S. BRISBIN to his wife concerning General George G. Meade. Dated "In the field, Va., December 8, 1863."

"There has been much talk about removing Genl. Meade but I don't know how it will come 'round. I am of the opinion he will remain in command of the Army. Genl. Pleasanton has been in Washington for two or three days -- It was talked he would be placed in command of the Army but I guess not. Jim Wade came up from Washington today — he thinks Meade will be removed."
Very fine! . . . . . (30.00)

1243. (CIVIL WAR) A.L.S. by Civil War general JAMES S. BRISBIN. Four full pages, to his wife, dated Bealton Station, Va., May 9, 1863. The letter is packed with accounts of fighting and mentioning many of the top commanders of the war, including Hooker and Stuart, and the action along the Rappauhanock.

"We were now directly behind the Reble Army and could hear Hooker fighting in front. The 3rd & 4th we spent in burning houses — taking horses and fighting — Lee whiped a portion of the 5th but when we came up he ran and we followed him 4 miles at a hard gallop — Stoll had a little fight with his Co. and brought in 35 mules and 27 niggers and lots of tobaco and candy — he took a store and plundered it ... This was the hardest night I ever spent. Men would fall of their horses asleep — horses died every ten rods and as fast as they fell men knocked in their heads with axes. The men were drove along on foot with naked sabers drawn over them and some fell down from fatigue. We had no wagons and left them laying by the roadside — it was now life or death. Hooker had failed to whip the Rebles and we were cut off — our column was 4 miles long and it was almost impossible to drag our heavy canon through the mid which was knee deep ..." There follows a detailed account of the suffering his troops encountered.
An unusually fine letter! . . . . . (45.00)

1244. (CIVIL WAR GUERILLAS) A.L.S. of Civil War general JAMES S. BRISBIN on the stationary of the "Headquarters U.S. Colored Troops." Dated Lexington, Ky., November 18, 1864. Basically a gossipy letter to his wife noting the hanging of the famous Confederate guerilla leader Ferguson. "We had some fun here the other day hanging two guerillas. Furguson (Brisbin's spelling) won't shoot any more wounded officers. Burbridge hung him up in a few hours after he was taken. An immense crowd went out to see them hung."
Interesting! . . . . . (30.00)

1245. CIVIL WAR. Collection of 23 pieces of correspondence (file copies from the file of Civil War major general N.J.T. Dana). All 1863, while Dana commanded all U.S. troops in Texas. Much of the correspondence is between Dana and General N.P. Banks who commanded the Department of the Gulf and the American consul in Monteray, Mexico.

All pertains to military news as when Banks relates that "Genl. Lee with his cavalry captured at Vermillion the 7th Texas Cavalry 100 strong and disabled several of their men." About 34 written pages.
A fine archive! . . . . . (55.00)

1246. (CIVIL WAR) Two file copies of post-war orders dealing with the cotton trade in Georgia. Ripped and somewhat stained. . . . . (10.00)

(See Lot No. 436 Session No. 2. Paper money John Hart)

1247. (CIVIL WAR) Group of three items. Brief A.N.S. of General STERLING PRICE, signature of General WILLIAM T. SHERMAN (signed with rank), inscription of Confederate President JEFFERSON DAVIS with note on how it was acquired. All mounted.
Nice group! . . . . . (35.00)

1248. (CIVIL WAR SPURS) A fine pair of spurs used during the Civil War and found among the personal possessions of General N.J.T. Dana.
Interesting! . . . . . (45.00)

1292. (JEFFERSON PEACE MEDAL) Copper peace medal with the likeness of Thomas Jefferson. Peace medals were presented to Indian chiefs as a token of American friendship. They are quite rare of the Jefferson period. It was holed and is part of an Indian necklace with beads, feathers and a shell all strung on cowhide. The pearly-like shell indicates that this tribe was possibly on the Pacific Ocean. If this is true, there is an excellent chance that this medal was brought west with the Lewis and Clark Expedition.

The beads are red, blue, black and white strung on cowhide. The bead pattern around the feathers are green, yellow, and white. (See Picture)

LOT No. 1308

1309. LINDBERGH, CHARLES A. Partially printed check made out by LINDBERGH to Ryan Airlines for $1000, dated February 25, 1927. THIS WAS THE DOWN PAYMENT FOR THE "SPIRIT OF ST. LOUIS"!

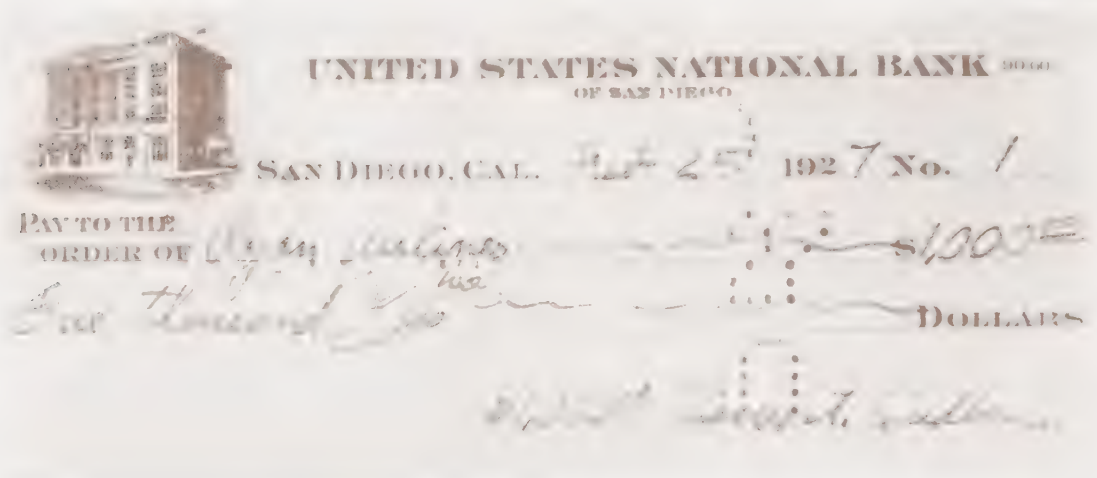
Early in 1927, LINDBERGH went to San Diego to contract with a small air plane construction company, Ryan Airlines, to build a plane to his specifications to compete in the New York to Paris competition. He had rejected such dealings with the larger aircraft manufacturers for a variety of reasons. A St. Louis group had given him $15,000 to build the plane with and Ryan was charging $6000 for the plane (without motor). This is check number 1, the first check he drew on his account with the United States National Bank of San Diego.

In LINDBERGH's book, "The Spirit of St. Louis," the aviation hero tells of his dealings with Ryan and how on February 25th, the date of the check, he received by Western Union the final go-ahead from his backers in St. Louis to close the deal.

Ryan built the Spirit for the "Lone Eagle" and acquired a motor. The rest is history. There has probably never been a more celebrated hero in American history. There is no more significant autograph of this hero than his check to purchase the Spirit of St. Louis.

Also a fine group of photographs, broadsides and clippings relating to LINDBERGH. Several of the photographs are reprints of the originals, some are original International Newsreel Photos. All are dramatic. The originals bear teletype notations and are fine condition.

It is in exceptional condition, with cancellations just barely affecting the CHARLES of his signature. Ryan's endorsement stamp in on the verso.



1310. (LINDBERGH KIDNAPPING) Four T.L.S. concerning the kidnapping of Charles Lindbergh's son and the trial and execution of Bruno Richard Hauptmann. All dated 1936. ANNA HAUPTMANN, the executed kidnapper's widow, states that she believes in the innocence of her late husband and shall investigate phases of the kidnapping on her own. Also three letters of Governor HAROLD HOFFMAN of New Jersey concerning the case. "My determination to continue my inquiry is not based upon a desire for personal vindication. None of the individuals in this case, including myself, really matter. Principle does matter – and I shall continue to fight for it."

Headlined: "ALLIES CAPTURE CAEN AND LA HAYE." Noted: "One high British officer called the Caen victory the 'El Alamein of France,' seeing in it a resemblance to the triumph of the Egyptian desert in the autumn of 1942 which inaugurated General Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's great push across North Africa." Signed "Montgomery of Alamein."

1318. (MORMONS) Scarce ten dollar note of the Kirkland Safety Society Bank. Signed by JOSEPH SMITH and SIDNEY RIGDON, early founders of the Mormon Church. Dated February 10, 1837, a little over a month after the bank first started issuing notes. The Kirkland Safety Society Bank issued the first Mormon currency. Organized on November 2, 1836, the church leaders were so positive that a charter would be granted, they dispatched one of their number to Philadelphia to have plates engraved for the currency to be issued. The legislature refused to grant the charter because of the crash of 1837. Also countersigned by A.B. HULL.

1322. (NEGRO: CIVIL WAR) Fascinating A.L.S. of Civil War general JAMES BRISBIN. Dated "Hd. Qurts. Dept. Ky./Louisville, Ky." May 26, 1865. To his wife. BRISBIN was charged by Lincoln to form the first colored units in the Union army. In this case, he discusses his defense of a Negro charged in court with murder.

"I am still detained in this place. On yesterday a poor negro was taken up and put on trial for murder. He had no lawyer and no money to pay one -- so the humane lawyers of Louisville were going to allow the poor devil to be tried without counsel but he found counsel where they least expected it. When the Court opened, I steped forward to defend him. The trial is exciting and I am much interested in it -- I believe the negro is inocent and will clear him if possible. You know I would not see a dog suffer unjustly, the case will last three or four days ..."

"Peary sailed north to Cape Sheridan, for this was to be the Supreme effort of an experienced and qualified explorer. The Arctic swallowed us up. The wireless, though in limited use, had not yet made the whole earth a sounding board. I went to the pole with Peary, not through favoritism, but because frozen feet forced all the others to turn back."

Upon reaching the Pole, "We gave three cheers and shook hands but were so tired it was not long before we turned in and slept. When we awoke we took observations and found we were at the Pole. We planted 'Old Glory' at the top of the world and as the stars and stripes broke into the Polar wind Commander Peary lifted his arms toward the rolling sun. His life's ambition was fulfilled."

LOT No. 1335

1336. ROOSEVELT, THEODORE. T.L.S. to Congressman Franklin Bartlett. Written as governor of New York, dated April 17, 1900. 1 full page. Interesting insight into ROOSEVELT's views on aid to education. In discussing the Davis School Bill, ROOSEVELT states, "I have come to the conclusion that the alleged danger of spending five or six millions is wholly ficticious ... With the increase in salaries go some needed new provisions which I do firmly believe will tend to take the schools out of politics. The salaries of policemen and firemen have, as you know, been very largely increased during the last twenty years, and indeed those of almost all our city officials except teachers who, compared with the others, have been much underpaid, and yet to my mind they are almost the most important ones." In excellent condition.

1341. (SHIPS PATENTS) A truly historic group which includes the patent papers for "improved Iron Clad Vessels" and two six foot long half-models in natural wood and colors. Hand constructed.

The patent papers, four pages, include the document with vignette and seal, signed by Acting Secretary of the Interior W.F. OTTO and Commissioner of Patents D.P. HOLLOWAY. Also an ink drawing on oil paper showing the exact improvements to the ironclads. Dated 1863. Two large pages in the hand of LEWIS TEES, the designer and son of famed shipbuilder Jacob Tees, describes in detail the improvements he wishes patented. He has signed at the end.

The oversize ships models are of an iron clad warship and an ice breaker. Both built in the 1860's. The U.S. Government contracted for several of the warships, but they were never completed due to the termination of the Civil War. The patent papers describe the details and purpose of the construction of this type of iron clad.

The ice breaker is a "side-wheeler" for clearing ice of the thickness in areas such as the Delaware River. It has a square, flat sloping bow, with three sets of iron saw teeth, one in the center on the keel, and one on each side.

These models were made to exact scale for the shipyard to follow the dimensions of every section of the hull to be constructed.

Jacob Tees and his son Lewis were prominent ship builders in Philadelphia. Nearly 200 ships of all descriptions, including warships, were built by them for this and other governments.

Accompanied by related articles, drawings and photographs.

Due to the unique nature of the collection, we feel that it would be improper to attempt to set a standard valuation which would guide bidders. These historic models must be seen to be fully appreciated. For this reason, we have placed no evaluation on this group!

1379. YOUNG, BRIGHAM. Mormon statesman. L.S. to Prof. Orson Pratt. Dated Great Salt Lake City, August 31, 1853. 1½ pages.

"Since my last letter to you, Indian aggressions still continue ... We are still acting entirely on the defensive & are very busy securing our crops, hay & winter's fuel, and in completing our defenses. Next week, we shall commence making a substantial ditch & wall around the whole city, the wall to be 12 feet high with gates & bastions; this will be something of a job, but we deem it one of the best moves we can make for our temperal salvation."

YOUNG writes further of his delegate to the Congress and the appointment of certain offices. "Health & prosperity prevail in our borders, and the spirit of union is increasing."

1380. YOUNG, BRIGHAM. Important L.S. to William Woolley in New Jersey. Dated President's Office, Great Salt Lake City, July 23rd, 1867. 2½ pages. YOUNG outlines his ideas regarding Mormon Zionism and encourages Woolley to come to Great Salt Lake City.

"... I am pleased to hear that you are still firm in the faith, determined to do the will of God and to gather with His people. You should cherish this determination and exercise all the faith, coupled with works within your power to emancipate yourself from Babylon. We are not sending down teams this year to help up the poor ... The Lord is very merciful to His people and He is blessing them to a very great extend. We have peace in our mountain home, though our enemies deserve no credit therfore; they have left nothing untried to bring trouble upon us, and it would delight them to see us overwhelmed and destroyed; but they find, as the wicked have always found, that it is a fearful thing to fight against the living God. Still we are not without our difficulties because we dwell in Zion; there are many things to try our faith and prove us in the work of God. But we are gaining experience, and we trust the day is not far distant when the Saints will be prepared to accomplish the redemption and building up of the centre Stake of Zion ... Our new tabernacle that we are building is being pushed ahead with commendable rapidity, and we hope to have it so far completed by our fall conference, that we can meet in it on that occasion. It will not be finished, probably, by that time, but sufficiently so to make it commodious. We have had Indian difficulties this season in the southern part of our Territory; but by being vigilant, the unfriendly Indians have gained no advantage, while they who were friendly have been kept so by kindness ..." HALF DIMES

THE RARE 1792 HALF DISME

LOT #1540

1540 Struck July 13, 1792 - The Silver contributed by George and Martha Washington. Obverse we consider very acceptable. All letters extremely clear. Beautiful date. Clear eye. Hair curls and denticles, sharp. 3 small fold abrasions. Tiny flat rim section at 2 o'clock. Reverse, some wear in M of dime. Center of eagle flat. Wings, tail & claws clear. A very desireable specimen of this historic first trial of coinage. An emission referred to by George Washington in his message to Congress and an issue entirely distributed by the First President of Our Country.

G. S. L. City, Sept. 21st 1852

Dear Brother,

Since my last letter to you, Sidney Rigdon, Hiram Gates, & John Gates, & Elias Smith have been killed, & John Scagland, & Isaac Leffler wounded, & some more that has been shot off. We are still acting entirely on the defensive, & are very busy securing our Crops, Hay, & wintering stock, and in completing our defences.

Next Spring, we shall commence making a substantial Adobe wall around the whole city, the wall to be 12 feet high with Gates & Bastions, this will be something of a job, but we deem it one of the best moves we can now make for our safety & salvation.

As Br. Wm Snow Jr. our Delegate to Congress, will be at Washington nearly all the time for the next two years and will be transacting much business, I have thought it best to give him a power of attorney to transact my business, which on his arrival, I will under the one you hold from me null.

I have written to Br. Hiram S. Eldredge to consult with you on the subject of opening a coal pit and mill, and one who is a judicious business man in his place, when he starts for home next season, this person must be appointed from the men who are out of the Pay now at the time, as I shall not be able to spare a suitable person from here, this situation will require care, and you will please look for Br. Hiram, you will in the matter.

Wealth is rapidly pouring in our borders, and the spirit of union is increasing.

Praying that you may rejoice in all needful blessings.

I remain as ever,

Your Brother in the Gospel
